A young man in Yale college went to a barler about to be shaved. It was the first time that any other band than his own had performed the operation, and he allowed his beard to grow for a work, in order to have it app ar as the needed shaving. He sat down in the chair. The barber pa-sed his hand lightly over his cheek and said; "Shaved once to-day, haven't you?".

Miss Gordon Cumming, in her book. "At home in Fiji," says that the Canmibals of those islands are a fine, mandy race, superior to all other Polynesians. As a rule, they are christened out of the New Testament, but some of the old heathen names still strive. such as "Blood-Drinker," "E.ts like a God," "Not qui e Cooke 1," "More Dead Mon's Fiesh," and "One who Quieta" (with a club.) The benedic tion uttered when one snerzes is "May you club some one," or "May your wife have twins."

Maria Derslame.

Pall Jan . U.zette.

A Parisian correspondent sends u-the following account of M.l.. Maria Deraisme, the her sine of the recen-anti-cletica! Congress: "Mile. Maria Deraisme was the lioness of the plat form. In argumentative power there is no orator in the French Chamber the superior of this lady. There is a tinge of acrimony in her style, a subscidity which gives it zest. Her fig ure is slightly awry, her face is long and pointed, and her forehead wide, high, prominent, and very smooth. It rises above pencilled eyebrows and bright and feverish hazel eyes. Mile Deraisme is a woman of some fortune; keeps a carriage, has a town and country house, and will never marry along as the status of the married woman is be ed on the Ori-ntsism of the Christian religion. St. Paut, who was the exponent to the Greek and Rouse churches of Orienfal i leas on woman, is the pat hatred of Miles Deralame. There is not a grain of ec. centricity in the manner or the method of this oratrees when she is on the platform or on ber fect at a banquet. the dresses richly and in excellent taste, wears sparkling rings on her shader flacers, gesticulates with lease and sobriety, and astonishes by ner intellecty of force. If she only sacrificed to the Green but that she will never do she would be a peerless speaker."

.vnaqmotucipiaff Commercial.

A striking instance of the unparal-leled financial condition of the people of the United States is shown in the fficial reports of the French Governmeut, giving the value of champagnerported from France to the Uniter-States. The con-umption of champagne in America has steadily increase ed for the last three year, but the increase of 1880 is remarkable, show ing the largest per cent of gain of any like period since this wine has been known to commerce. In 1877 the value of this wine exported to the United S at a was $1,298,398. In 1878 and 1879 the amount was slightly in excess of this, but in 1880 it ly in excess of this, but in 1880 it jumped up to $2,317.592. These ngures are suggestive, as showing in crea ed capacity to purchase luxuries. As a matter of fact, every article of luxury up in the lists of imports shows an increase in 1880 over any previous year. So far as can be judged from this, the American prope are becoming what is called full handely, and are slinging their money around right royally. right royally.

BRADY AND GORHAM.

The New York Tribune editorially says: "Not the least affliction put upon the late Senator Conkling in these trying times is the affectionate sympathy and support of Tom Brady's Washington Star Route organ, and imported merino editor, George C. Gorham, formerly of California and later of nowhere. Mr. Gorham is a political Ishmaelite, and who was declared by one hundred Republican clubs in California last year to be no Republican. It is well known that the support of Conkling by the merino editor and Star Route proprietor is entirely due to investigations now going on in the Postoffice department. The support of these delectable persons might have been purchased at any time by stopping the Star Route prosecutions, and every gun in the arsenal could be spiked to-morrow by the judicions distribution of a dezen pardons for criminal offenses, signed in blank.

The Tribune seems to be sailing with a new crew lately. There is no doubt that Gorbam has always been a Repubparty. Whether he has an exclusive right to the Secretaryship of the Senste is another matter. Brady will soon be shown up in Court.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is a Russian legend that-

"When falls Paul's colamn dies the Czar, And Russians upon Russians war. The deed was done in eighteen one, and when fwice forty years are run, Wail, Russia, for thy crowned one."

The Czar believes as firmly as the most ignorant peasant that the prophecy was not fulfilled by the murder of Alexander II., but that 1881 will withess a civil war and the overthrow of ness a civil war and the overthrow of the Romanoff dynasty.

The Czar now possibly regrets re fusing a position on the GAZETTE. Pride goeth before a fall.

The amount of coupon five-percents received for continuance at 314 up to June 7th, was $30,352,700. It is the opinion of Treasury officials that nearly all the outstanding coupon fives will be received during the month. There are upwards of five millions registered five-per-cents in the Tressury Department, which were tardily forwarded and await determination by the Secretary.

In 1848 President John Tyler, Sec-retary of State Daniel Webster and Senator Heary Clay occupied relations similar to those existing between President Garfield, Secretary Blaine and Sepator Conkling. Number of representatives present, 80.

The Committee on Credentials submitted their report on Past Grands and Representatives.

An invitation was accepted from the Lodges and Encampments of Eureka to participate in a reception and parade at 11:30 A. M.

The Grand Marshal introduced thirty-six Past Grand officers, who were obligated and instructed in the Grand Lodge degree.

The Grand Lodge then took a recess until 3 P. M.

The parade was very creditable and imposing, and numbered 171 members of the Order in line, though business and other causes prevented many belonging to the local lodges from participating.

THE EXERCISES OF WELCOME.

The procession reached the Or ing, the dress circle being reserved for the ladies. The officers of the Grand Lodge took seats upon the stage, while the representatives and the members of the local lodges occu-pied the main floor. The exercises were opened by the Centennial Guard Band. Prayer by Grand Chaplain, The condition of Secretary Blaine's Hon. L. L. Crockett, followed. ode of welcome, composed by Prof. W. W. Pulling for the occasion, was then sung by the Episcopal Church choir, Mr. Pulling presiding at the piano. This was followed by an address of welcome by Past Grand Master W. H. Davenport. Grand Master Henning responded to the cordial words of greeting, and he in turn called upon D. O. Atkinson, a veteran of the Order. The Episcopal choir sang a hymn, which was followed with a glee song, "Fair Flora Decks," by members of the Centennial Guard Band. The Oud Fellows' closing ode and a benediction by the Grand Chaplain ended the exercises, which throughont were of an interesting nature. The procession was then reformed and marched back to Odd Fellows' Hall, where it was dismissed by the Mar shal,

Blaine as Editor

(Portland Press.)

Mr. Blaine was the readiest and nost versatile man I ever saw in an editorial room. He never kept anybody waiting for him, and he was exact in requiring that the printers should have his copy in type, and proofs ready at the appointed time. Mr. Blaine writes a fluent, graceful hand, with few emendations, and the printers could read it readily, though sometimes a new compositor would-remonstrate over it. He seldom made remonstrate over it. He seldom made "alterations from copy." He seemed to fling his words down like lightning, and they struck right every time. He always, when in town, superintended the "making up" of the editorial page, and in the mechanical process he displayed a rare faculty; a phrenologist would say that his "organ of size" was extremely well developed. "There" he would say to the foreman, "put this article at the the foreman, "put this article at the head of the column, and follow it with this, and then this," pointing to a third, "will just fill out," and he rarely ever erred materially.

Tragedy and Comedy.

The distinction is very simple. In The distinction is very simple. In a tragedy the plot turns on a murder; in a comedy it turns on a marriage. The question in a comedy is whether the marriage will take place or not, and in a tragedy whether the murder will be accomplished or not. There will be a marriage, there will be a murder; this is the first act. There will be no marriage or no murder; this is the second act. A new incident happens, a new manner of killing or attacked Voorhees' store, intending to rob it, and shot the proprietor twice, probably fatally. The latter returned the fire and the desperadoes fied. A lynching party was organized. Knowles was shot dead and Connors was captured and returned Thursday, and undoubtedly will be lynched.

O'NEIL OWNS UP.

Thief Who Carries a Bible and Constable Avery arrived from Vir ginia this morning, bringing with him James O'Neil, who was detected in Virginia City while disposing of silverware stolen recently from A. J. Clark's house in Reno. Justice Hires first spotted the fellow, who went into a restaurant where the judicial breadbasket was in process of filling with fat capon, and tried to sell some spoons. The articles stolen from Clark were recovered by Avery, and brought back with the prisoner. When the Chief of Police was searching the fellow, be pulled out a prayer book, and, showing it to the officer, said, in a voice unctuous with the axle-grease of sanctity: "Good people, do you think that a man who carries such a book as that next his heart would steal?" No doubt be had gobbled the book itself. The man is supposed to be an old Calfornia convict. When arrested a piece of candle, carefully rolled in paper with matches, etc., were found on him. An old member of the Comstock force recognized the gentleman at sight, and says that the man was sent from Napa or Marysville. He had with him a bottle of burnishing fluid with which he brightens up old ware, and says he started out from Sacramento, making a business of burnishing old ware, then trading it as new ware for old, which he in turn burnished, and traded off as new ware, he having a few articles with which to start in business He says he went from Sacramento to safeties from working, the cable reel Grass Valley, then came over the being unchutched from the engine when other. I then went up the track and laid down on a box and went to sleep. I woke up sober and knew I was broke then. I felt right straight for Clark's house." O'Neil says that he had a "pointer" symptoms in a most remarkable de- phasizing another illustration of that entered against Mr. O., and he will be examined to morrow morning.

Behind the Curtain.

After the Claxton combination, and others who have given Reno whatever happened to be handy, the following has a point. If the point is not apparent, a diagram of the joke can be had at this office:

Mr. Brown's name has a witty story connected with it. When one of his plays was brought out at Reno, an awful "wait" occurred after the second act. The orchestra played, and played again. Presently a harsh grating sound was heard behind-something like sawing. Some one asked the au thor what it meant. "I can't say," he answered sadly. "I suppose they are cutting out the third act.'

The mutilation of coin by punching has become so common of late that Greenville. unless the community takes the matter in hand and promptly sets its face against this open violation of a na-tional statute, unmutilated coins wilt be the exception and mutilated the rule. It is not as generally known as it should be that there is a law seventy-five years old that makes this defacing or lessening of the value of a coin a high misdemeanor. The law is mentioned that all may understand the nature of the offense, and with a hope that all will join in a continued effort to frown it down. If every business man or woman will at once resolve that punched or musilated coins will not be received by them, and steadily adhere to the resolution, there will be a speedy termination to this lawless practice. #### Narrow Escape.

The Greenville Bulletin tells how ady well-known in Reno came near losing her life:

On Monday afternoon, Robert Tre main and his daughter, Mrs. Proctor, were returning home from Quincy in a top buggy, drawn by two fine borses. About 5 o'clock, soon after crossing Clear Creek bridge, on coming around a curve, they encountered two large rocks which had been loosened from the bank above by the rain, and fallen into the road. These frightened the horses, and they commenced to back. Mrs. Proctor was sitting on the righthand side and jumped out, calling to her father to do the same. He endeavored to start up the horses, but in vain, and they continued to back having already cramped the buggy so that the hind wheels were off the grade Mr. Tremain saw that it was no use to tarry longer, and jumped out, landing just below the grade and climbing up. About as soon as he reached the road, the horses and buggy had gone nearly 800 feet down an almost perpendicular bank, to the edge of Spanish creek.

Constitutional Amendments

The following amendments to the Constitution of the State of Nevada having passed at two consecutive sesons of the Legislature, submitted to the people and by them ratified, have therefore become a part of said Constitution; to wit:

Article XI., Section X. to read follows.

Section X. No public funds of any kind or character whatever, State county or municipal, shall be used for ectarian purposes.

Article II., Section I. The word white" was eliminated therefrom. New Article added.

Article XVIII. The rights of suffage and office-holding shall not be withhald from any male citizen of the United States by reason of his color or previous condition of servitude.

I hereby certify that the above mendments to the Constitution of this State have been duly acted upon and are now a part thereof.

Indian Postivities.

The dusky maidens and painte blow-out. Louis Bevier says that since the C. &. C. was built, the aboriginal society is improving very fast. He has gone to Walker River to Superintend the shindig. The Silver State says: "Buena Vista John received a dispatch from Captain Sam, of Virginia, Wednesday, inviting him and his Piutes to attend a fandango at Walker River Saturday. Captain John, who is a very sensib e chief, replied that a great many Indians are now at work on farms and stock ranges and he did not think it advisable to have them quit and go to Walker Humboldt will not be very well represented at the dance."
